

Danielle Lamoureux - personal site

This will be a portfolio-style personal site that will be used as a way to give more information about myself and my interests.

Users will have the opportunity to navigate through the site and view an about-me page with in-depth information and interests, as well as some of my work, and a contact page with information on how to reach me and find out more details.

Personas

Employees

Employees I work with can view my page to get to know me better and find ways to reach me.

Recruiters

Recruiters will be able to view my site to look up my resume and find my contact and more details.

Classmates

Fellow classmates can view my page to learn more about me and get inspiration from / collaborate with design ideas.
